HOUR CUTTING
OF STORES HITMORE JOBS IS AIM OF NRA, JOHNSON
DECLARES

BY JAMES P. SELVAGE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—Speaking directly to retailers and grocers—but indirectly to all employers who covenant with President Roosevelt to increase employment—Hugh S. Johnson warned today that agreements must be fulfilled.

Turning momentarily from a hearing on a permanent code for the bituminous coal industry, the NRA chief struck out at "misunderstandings" which he said had led to shortening of operating store hours instead of adding more employees.

Thousands more workers were brought within the scope of the presidential agreements meantime with approval by Johnson of modified wage and hour provisions for the petroleum and jewelry industry.

Becoming effective immediately, employers will receive the blue eagle upon their compliance and until permanent codes are prescribed.

Johnson Issues Warning

Dozens more temporary agreements for higher wages and shortened working hours for employees are being promised soon in the administration's high-pressure campaign to bring virtually all of industry into line within a few weeks without awaiting the formal hearings preceding permanent codes.

Johnson, for the second time in four days, warned retail and grocery store operators that the intent of the recovery act to provide more employment would be defeated if they shortened hours of operation instead of adding more workers, adding:

"When employers sign this agreement with their president after reading section eight, no one could conceivably set about staggering employee hours, and increasing rest periods, and increasing the time for lunch without pay, or either directly or indirectly conspire to defeat the very purpose of the agreement by materially shortening the number of hours which the stores had customarily stayed open."

The administrator pointed out that while the actual agreement provided that operating hours should not be reduced below 52, unless they had been less before July 1, the actual intent of the agreement was that there should be no shortening whatsoever. Stores were expected to take on additional helpers to continue operation.

"That agreement is a solemn covenant and its purpose is explicit," Johnson said. "The owners of the stores and the customers who buy from those stores should have but one single purpose, which is to carry out this specific provision which has to do with re-employment through reducing the number of hours each employee works and by keeping the stores open as long as possible."

In addition to giving effectiveness to the wage and hour provisions of codes for the jewelry and oil business—the latter having to do with thousands of

States Told to Spend Money For Relief If
They Seek U.S. Grants

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—Setting one billion dollars as the goal for unemployment relief through the coming winter, Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, said today that unless states and cities equal the government's $500,000,000 appropriation the jobless "are going to take a beating."

The youthful boss of Uncle Sam's big relief job expressed the

MISSOURI NEXT
IN REPEAL DRIVEAt Least 37 States Will

Issue This Year

(By The Associated Press)
The tide of prohibition repeal, having overwhelmed physically arid Arizona, swept on toward Missouri last night with its advocates ostensibly in sight of their goal.

Repeal elections yet to be held this year in 16 states will bring the total voting to 37. That is one more than the 36 required to expel the 18th amendment, should all favor the measure submitted by the national administration.

Arizona's margin of 3 to 1 in Tuesday's referendum made it the 21st state to express opposition to the liquor control amendment. Not one has favored retention.

Missouri, where prohibition forces did not put forward slates of delegates at many recent pre-meeting votes, Aug. 19, Texas, which last year was recorded 2 to 1 for submission of the amendment, follows Aug. 26. Washington winds up the August elections with a vote on the 29th.

Through action of the Colorado legislature this week, its citizens will express their sentiment September 12, electing delegates to a convention September 26. Formal proclamations have not been issued in Colorado or Utah—scheduled to vote November 7—but these are considered certain to be forthcoming.

Other states to vote in September are Vermont, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Idaho and New Mexico. Florida will be at the polls Oct. 10, and the Carolinas, Pennsylvania, Utah and Ohio will vote Nov. 7, completing, under present arrangements, this year's balloting upon the 21st repeal amendment.

An election after December 5 has been authorized in Oklahoma, but it is likely to be postponed until next year.

Paving Of Gaps In US-131 Requested

Lansing, Aug. 9 (AP)—A group of about 60 representatives of communities along US-131 conferred with Governor Comstock, Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner and other state officials today urging that two gaps in the route be paved.

The state was asked to relocate and surface the road between Fife Lake and Kalkaska and to pave about 8 1/2 miles south of Petoskey. The principal difficulty, according to state officials, lies in the fact that little state money is available and federal public works funds are allocated by counties.

The Petoskey project, it was stated, could not be surfaced with concrete under that county's share of federal funds. Unless other financing schemes can be devised it would have to be surfaced with macadam or gravel.

Legal Beer Makes
Debut In Nebraska

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 9 (AP)—The advent of legal beer at 12:01 a. m., after seventeen years of banishment, was greeted tonight by celebrants in many Nebraska communities.

Many others, however, yawned and went to bed. "We sell beer" signs have been displayed for weeks in Omaha and in other localities the 3.2 brand has been obtainable without interference from local authorities.

CARRIERS TOLD NOT TO CUT LABOR
PROJECTS

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—The railroads were told today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal transportation coordinator, to postpone all "projects for economy at the expense of labor."

Simultaneously, Eastman said in a separate statement that reports to him from all of the class one railroads of the nation except one showed a net gain in employment on the carriers of 65,268 since June 1.

The coordinator's words to the railroads assumed the form of a notice that they must work out their general economy programs through the three regional committees created by law and not through independent groups of their own.

In a statement addressed to the three coordinating committees of the east, west and south, Eastman said maintenance by the railroads of separate committees to do the same work had the " earmarks of a device to avoid" the labor restriction provisions of the law.

Eastman asserted the railroads, from a long range standpoint, must work toward the "utmost possible economy," but from the short range point of view "projects for economy at the expense of labor should be postponed so that they may not in any way conflict with or imperil the supreme effort toward recovery which the nation is now making."

Omitting 5,536 men returned to work by the Baltimore and Ohio, which were not segregated by classes, the reports showed 22,942 returned to work on maintenance of way and structures, 17,214 on maintenance of equipment, and 19,696 in all other classes.

U. S. AGENCIES
ARE SHAKEN UPProhibition Bureau Goes
Out of Existence;
Savings Made

BY DON J. KIRKLEY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—A new alignment of federal agencies, which abolishes such familiar agencies as the prohibition bureau and shipping board, goes into effect at midnight tonight under President Roosevelt's economy reorganization program.

The charges call for more deletions from the governmental structure than any action since the end of the war.

No responsible official could estimate how many workers lose their jobs, but the majority felt the number would be less than 2,000.

Immediate savings from the reorganization, estimated originally to cut yearly expenditures at least $25,000,000, will be at the rate of about $5,000,000 annually as a result of modifications extending the time to December 31, in which some changes become effective.

At Hyde Park, President Roosevelt carefully studied reorganization plans presented by cabinet aides and went into the legal phases so that there could be no upset.

Here are the divisions abolished as independent units:

Shipping board and merchant fleet corporation, acquired by the commerce department.

Prohibition bureau, its investigation and enforcement work sent to a division of investigation in the justice department and other duties divided between that department and the treasury.

Office of public buildings and public parks of the national capital, national memorial commission, Rock creek and Potomac parkway commission, Arlington memorial bridge commission; duties to the national park service, which becomes the office of national parks, buildings and reservations.

The bureau of immigration and naturalization are consolidated into a bureau of immigration and naturalization, while the federal board for vocational education, heretofore an independent unit, becomes an advisory board with its functions placed in a division of the office of education of the interior department.

Major phases of the reorganization plan postponed until December 31 are: establishment of a division of procurement in the treasury to succeed the several hundred units now obtaining supplies, and formation of a division of disbursing in that department to succeed the 2,200 agencies attending to that duty now.

Minneapolis, Aug. 9 (AP)—A threat to kidnap and harm the two sons of L. K. Stein, wholesale fruit and produce company president, unless he paid $3,500 was reported today as a suspect was arraigned on a charge of sending an extortion note through the mails.

The suspect, Irving J. Hoffman, brought before a United States commissioner, waived examination. Bail was fixed at $5,000. His trial was set for September 26.

Escaped Prisoner

Successful Career

Mansfield, O., Aug. 9 (AP)—The Ohio board of paroles began today a study of the strangely contrasting chapters in the life of 25-year-old Paul Maxim, who while a fugitive from prison, not only attended college but advanced in the business world until he became a successful advertising manager in Chicago, under the name of "J. Paul Faraday."

Maxim, who was arrested in Chicago Saturday on a mysterious "tip" to police, was a lad of 19 when he was sentenced in 1927 for one to 15 years imprisonment on conviction of stealing class pins valued at $160 from a Coitsville, O., school. He escaped from the reformatory's honor camp the same year.

'Spiritual Education'
Of Tokyo Residents is Aim of Sham Warfare

Tokyo, Aug. 9 (AP)—Scenes and sounds of stimulated warfare were loaned on Tokyo today for the "spiritual education" of the 15,000,000 inhabitants of the metropolitan area as the navy and army started a three-day sham battle for possession of the capital.

The "hostilities" constituted the second phase of the grand maneuvers of the imperial sea forces.

The thunder of battle, joined with many of the attendant organizations and activities of actual fighting, served also as an impressive propaganda spectacle in behalf of a stronger navy and increased air forces.

All Lights Put Out
An increasing watchfulness upon foreigners, especially military and naval officers, was exercised by the Japanese authorities as the mimic war progressed.

A girl watching one of the several air fights from a roof fell and was killed.

By orders of the defending commanders, lights in the capital were extinguished for two hours tonight and the city was in complete darkness while air raiders roared overhead.

"Enemy" airplanes flew over the city three times during the day while sirens screamed a warning to the population. In the streets smoke bombs and vapors of many colors were exploded in representation of poison gas and incendiary shells.

Stretcher-bearers in gas masks carried supposed wounded to emergency hospitals while anti-aircraft cannon and machine guns boomed and rattled from the public parks.

BALBO ARMADA

Member of Crew is Drowned

Lisbon, Portugal, Aug. 9 (AP)—Twenty-three seaplanes of the Italian transatlantic air squadron arrived here this afternoon from the Azores where on the departure early this morning one of the ships overturned, resulting in the death of one member of its crew.

General Italo Balbo, leader of the expedition which now has crossed and recrossed the Atlantic, was in the first of three groups to descend on the River Tagus, his flagship settling on the water at 2:30 p. m. G. M. T. (9:30 a. m., E. S. T.) amid the cheers of a welcoming throng which included many Italians.

Three of the seaplanes had remained behind at Ponta Delgada in the Azores to care for the crew of the wrecked ship but they were soon also on their way eastward and rejoined the main body at its moorings one hour and fifteen minutes later.

Lieutenant Enrico Squaglia, relief pilot of the plane commanded by Captain Celso Ranieri, was drowned when this craft turned over as the part of the armada at Ponta Delgada was taking off.

The captain and radio sergeant also, Boyer and Motor Sergeant Luigi Cremaschi were injured in the accident, but apparently not seriously.

(One man was killed at Amsterdam when the Italian armada landed at Amsterdam, completing the first leg of its flight to Chicago. Otherwise the great expedition has been free of grave incidents until today.)

The seven fliers of Lisbon were thronged with sightseers to welcome the Italian planes on their arrival for which plans for an elaborate reception had been made.

Detroit, Aug. 9 (AP)—Police here are holding William Hansen, 25, on a charge of suspicion of arson following the destruction Wednesday of the interior of a yacht belonging to William A. The damage was estimated at $40,000.

Taken from Grave,
Man Is Arrested

Danville, Ky., Aug. 9 (AP)—A man was taken from a grave here and arrested today.

A boy who delivered a package at the door of the house where the fatalities occurred said that Alfred Sisson, about 35, mumbled to him: "Two men are dead here and I am dying. Get a doctor."

Coroner J. Lee Voorhees and sheriff's officers hurried to the house. They found Sisson unconscious, and the bodies of two men who had been dead about 18 hours. Sisson did not recover sufficiently to give the names of his dead companions.

A bottle found in the house contained what the officers said was an alcohol compound commonly used for fuel.

Fusion Forces In

New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—Fusion forces, seeking to wrest control of the city's government from Tammany hall, enter the majority campaign facing a task accomplished only twice since the first election in greater New York city in 1897.

Fiorello H. LaGuardia, the Fusion candidate for mayor, will seek to duplicate the victories of Seth Low, president of Columbia university, in 1901 and John Purroy Mitchell, fighting Irishman, in 1913.

As in the case of Low and Mitchell, LaGuardia enters the fight after scandals in the city's administration under Tammany's domination.

MINERS RETURN
TO THEIR JOBSPeace Restored to Soft Coal Fields in Pennsylvania

BY MABREN GRAHAM
Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 9 (AP)—Lingering trouble spots in the Pennsylvania mine strike cleared up today, bringing peace to the exhausted soft coal fields and sending thousands of men back to the pits.

The last of the Fayette county miners to remain on strike—200 workers in the H. C. Erick company's Colonial No. 4 mine at Grindstone—resumed work after federal and state agencies intervened to smooth over fresh grievances in a dispute concerning checkweightmen.

At the same time, striking miners of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal corporation, also at odds with the operators over the question of selecting checkweightmen, voted to return to the mines tomorrow.

Another group, employed by the Pittsburgh Coal company, largest producer in the world, met tonight to determine the date for their resumption of work.

As workers filed back into fifteen of the Erick mines this morning, the Colonial No. 4 men balked, claiming company officials refused to recognize the checkweightmen and the mine committee they had selected.

While they dispatched a strong protest to Edward F. McGrady, NRA labor advisor whose appeal in behalf of President Roosevelt yesterday brought about the men's decision to resume work, Duncan MacCallum, secretary of Governor Pinchot, went into conference with their leader, Martin Ryan.

Shortly after Ryan agreed that his men would return pending action of the NRA arbitration board on their grievances, the board at Washington—Gerard Swope, Louis E. Kirstein and George L. Berry—handed down a set of rules for the election of checkweightmen.

Dancing Masters
Adopt New Whirl,

New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—Dancing Masters of America (incorporated) went into a huddle tonight, battled long and earnestly with art and economics and emerged with a new dance.

It's called—your've guessed it—NIRA.

It goes like this: Take a gliding forward step, two short side steps (one a two-close) and one long glide. It's like a fox trot, resembles a waltz, and is reminiscent of a two-step with terephorean connotations.

The association adopted the NRA blanket code, and drafted a code for dancing masters calling for a maximum work week of 30 hours, with a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour.

FOES DEMAND
CUBAN LEADER
LEAVE OFFICESOLDIERS ASSIGNED TO TAKE CHARGE OF REPUBLIC

BY J. P. M'KNIGHT
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1933, By The Associated Press)

Havana, Aug. 9 (AP)—President Gerardo Machado, central figure in Cuba's volcanic political life, declared a state of war through out the republic late today while Summer Welles, United States ambassador, and leaders of various parties awaited a reply to their demand that the president retire from his office.

The general strike existing in Cuba, the presidential decree asserted, has given "enemies of the public peace" an opportunity "to create a revolutionary state in the country."

The state of war was declared to come into effect at 6 o'clock this evening and military units, which retired from Havana Monday night after disturbances in which 21 persons were killed, were ordered to return to the city to make the decree operative.

The decree was signed under authority granted the president by congress Monday when it voted the suspension of constitutional guarantees throughout the island for thirty days.

Welles seeks solution. Learning of this sensational development, Ambassador Welles, who has conducted mediation conferences with government and opposition chiefs here for several weeks, demanded an immediate interview with Orestes Ferrag, Cuban secretary of state, who returned today after a long absence at the London economic conference.

Under the plan of settlement sponsored by the American ambassador and approved by the heads of various political groups, President Machado would retire from his post by taking a leave of absence and would appoint another secretary of state in place of his supporter, Senor Ferrera.

Upon the withdrawal of Machado and Ferrera the newly designated secretary of state, the joint choice of opposing political factions, would assume office as acting president.

The Machado decree did not on its face answer the question of whether the president would quit his office.

Calling attention to the strike situation which it said created "a difficult situation in all the aspects of civil life," the decree asserted:

"Therefore, given the circumstances set forth, the interest of the public peace demands the adoption of extraordinary means for the maintaining of order, for which the recognition procedure adopted by the government have not been sufficient; nor have the means at the disposal of the civil authorities sufficed to prevent such disturbances."

The decree declaring a state of war put into force the old Spanish law of public order, placing civilians under the jurisdiction of military courts for arraignment.

Aimee and David Try
Trial Reconciliation

Los Angeles, Aug. 9 (AP)—While film players are trying trial engagements and trial separations Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton and her vaudeville singing husband, David, today came forward with the trial reconciliation.

They said they would forget Hutton's suit for divorce, declare a truce, and see what happens.

Jerome Mayo, Hutton's attorney, said the singer and evangelist learned at a meeting yesterday in a down town hotel that Angelus Temple difficulties and not personal problems were at the bottom of their estrangement.

"Sister Aimee and Dave have ironed out their difficulties," said Mayo. "Now, each feeling only friendliness and affection for the other, they are trying out their reconciliation to see if it will work."

TOY ASSERTS ALIBIS FRAUD

Evidence Presented by Life Termers Concocted, Claim

Detroit, Aug. 9 (AP)—The matter of "utmost importance" which Prosecutor Harry S. Toy promised to present to the court, apparently made its appearance today at the hearing on a motion for a new trial for three life termers at Marquette prison, convicted of participation in the so-called Collingwood "manor" massacre here two years ago.

The prosecutor presented a series of affidavits on his own behalf, designed to contradict alibi and other contentions outlined in behalf of Ray Bernstein, Irving Milberg and Harry Keywell, in a group of 30 affidavits presented for them by Fred D. Kaplan, New York lawyer.

One of the documents presented by Toy today was an affidavit from a maid employed in the Milberg home at the time of the slaying, in which it was stated that Milberg was absent from his apartment all day and was not at home asleep as alibi testimony sought to establish, and further that the maid was paid $130 by Mrs. Bertha Milberg to absent herself and fail to testify at the trial of the three men.

"Concocted Fraud"—Affidavits from members of the Reading, Pa., police department, were introduced by the prosecutor today to show that records presented by the defense to prove that Harry Fleisher, sought as one of the slayers, was in jail there on September 16, 1931, were fraudulent and were added to the police records of that city more than a month after that date.

Toy also entered into the record affidavits from employees of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., showing that records of long distance telephone calls are easily available to the public and stating they never had seen the originals of the slips purporting to be records of long distance calls made by Bernstein and Keywell at the time of the slayings.

The prosecutor referred to the claims of alibi evidence presented in behalf of the three Purple gangsters as "a concocted fraud made as a last desperate venture by these three killers."

Affidavits have been offered at the present hearing from both Milberg and his wife, declaring that Milberg had played cards the night before the triple slaying in the Collingwood manor and that he was home asleep all the next afternoon.

Toy pointed out that these affidavits are in direct contravention to statements made by Milberg and his wife at the time of his arrest. Milberg at the time said he was "riding around somewhere" all that afternoon. Mrs. Milberg said she didn't know where her husband was that afternoon.

workers employed in producing, refining and actually retailing the product—the administration received proposed codes from the laundry, hat, and dry cleaning machinery manufacturing industries.

More than 1,000 codes from various industries, many of them covering the same groups, are now before the administration and the intention is, as described by officials, to put the wage and hour provisions of all into effect as soon as they can be analyzed and agreements sought if the first scales are not satisfactory.

Among those now under consideration is that of the newspaper publishers, presented by a committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association headed by Howard Davis of New York. Johnson called this directly to his desk today for study.

Gain for Labor In New Textile Shop Councils

BY RODNEY DUTCHER (Daily Press Washington Correspondent)

(Copyright 1933, NEA Service, Inc.) Washington—Labor's first tangible gain under the National Recovery Act was adoption of the code amendment establishing machinery for settling labor disputes in the cotton textile industry.

Shop committees representing the employees and the management of mills are to sit on any controversy arising out of working conditions. Appeals may be taken to a state cotton textile administration board and then, if necessary, to a cotton textile national relations board in Washington.

Similar setups are expected in other industries. The man responsible for this semi-revolutionary intervention of government in labor disputes is a kindly, youthful, silver-haired man in his fifties, known internationally as an expert on industrial management and industrial relations.

Studied Alleged Evasions—Robert Walter Bruere was named by Administrator Johnson as head of a committee to investigate the stretch-out system in southern cotton mills. Stretch-out means the assignment of additional machines to workers at the same rate of pay. The system was an obvious menace to success of the recovery act and NRA has been flooded with complaints as to this abuse since the textile code became effective.

Bruere returned reporting that the only remedy lay in establishment of shop committees. Conditions differed in every plant. Thousands of variables might be found in a score of factories. No flat rule should be laid down to govern the permissible number of looms or spindles.

Most textile manufacturers agreed. General Johnson approved the Bruere contention that workers on shop committees would be powerless unless they had a court of appeal. Now labor is promised a new form of recognition, which in no way qualifies its other rights of collective bargaining under the recovery act.

Student of Economics—Bruere, who will be Johnson's representative and chairman on the national relations board, has been a social welfare worker and labor arbitrator as well as a student and writer on economics.

He was one of the first to persuade industry to realize that the success of production engineering depended in large part on labor. At the request of government officials he came here during the war to organize the bureau of industrial research, which studied production engineering for the government's benefit. He has specialized on power and coal problems and has often been called as an arbitrator in labor disputes. Recently he has been an industrial consultant. Two years ago he was sent to China on a fact-finding expedition by the Institute for Religious and Social Research.

Bulkley Answered—This story dates back to the last campaign. Gilbert Bulkley, Republican candidate running against Senator Robert J. Bulkley was making a speech and extolling the merits of the Republican plan for prohibition revision as against repeal. He used his metaphor in football. "If you hit the line and hit the line and hit the line without gaining and ground, what would you do?" he demanded.

And before he could answer him, self there came an eager shout from a member of his audience: "Pass the ball to Bulkley!"

BANK UNIFYING SYSTEM GROWS

Increase in Membership of Federal Reserve Is Foreseen

By J. R. BRACKETT (Associated Press Business Writer)

New York (AP)—A possible effect of the Glass-Steagall banking law will be to increase greatly the membership of the Federal Reserve system, even, perhaps, forcing practically all banks into it, and having the effect of unifying the nation's banking system.

The system is now divided in a general way into three parts: the national banks, which are supervised by the federal government; the state banks, which are supervised by the various states; and both kinds of banks within the Federal Reserve system. National banks are required to belong to the system, while state banks may do so if they feel it desirable. Most state banks do not belong.

Banks joining the reserve system must subscribe to certain requirements as to capitalization, reserves and so on, while non-member state banks subscribe only to state laws, which vary considerably.

Guaranty Provision—The item in the new act that might bring most banks into the system is the federal deposit guaranty provision. Temporarily, beginning January 1 all banks may participate in the guaranty, and all reserve banks must do so, but after July 1, 1934, all banks participating in the guaranty must join the system.

Thus, while the act does not force participation in the system, if a bank wishes to use the federal guaranty it must belong.

On the basis that the bank with the guaranty is in the best competitive position so far as deposits are concerned, most banks particularly the small ones, would be forced to join, the argument runs.

Some bankers do not like the guaranty features of the bill because, they say, it requires strong banks, in small danger of failure, to contribute larger amounts to the guaranty fund than banks not so strong and, in effect, uses their funds to protect competitors.

All On Same Basis—They argue that a bank made strong by the efficiency of its management may be in no better position to attract customers than a weak one, since the deposits of both will be guaranteed.

In official circles it was indicated these commanders probably would be the officers now commanding the army detachments stationed in each provincial capital.

INSURANCE NOTICE—Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)—President Roosevelt sent firm word to Cuba tonight to abandon its political warfare "at the earliest possible moment" in the interest of preventing starvation and preserving economic welfare.

Mr. Roosevelt gave his notice personally to the official Cuban ambassador and it was interpreted unofficially as meaning that a political rule by force must cease.

He rested on this statement to Ambassador Cintas and withheld action on definite recommendations for new moves in the island republic believed to have been contained in a special report received by airplane early this afternoon from Ambassador Welles in Havana.

counties. In addition, Gibney said, he planned to bring in about 10 workers from outside the state to handle the campaign.

Plans New Charges—The "two bucks and a package of cigars," referred to constituted all he had received so far, Gibney said, from Bowser, he added in answer to a question, however, that what he was to receive for "running the recall," is "none of your business."

"Mr. Gibney speaks for me," Bowser seconded.

Gibney said he estimated it would cost about 15 cents a name to gather sufficient names to insure a recall election. "I figure it will cost at least $70,000," he added. He did not say where the $70,000 was to come from, but said he planned to begin a money raising drive forthwith.

"The first thing I'm going to do," Gibney continued, "is to get out new petitions. Those old ones aren't any good; neither the first nor the second set. I'm going to have charges that will hold water."

Gibney said that in the Mayor Bowles recall campaign agitators were paid from three to seven cents for each signature they obtained.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 9 (AP)—Chase S. Oshorn, of Sault Ste. Marie, former governor of Michigan, will not be able to attend the twenty-third annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau here Thursday in the Northland Hotel, it was learned today. The speaker in his place will be Dr. W. O. Hotchkiss, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton.

George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the bureau, will arrive in Marquette tomorrow for the meeting. He has been in Chicago since the World's Fair opened and is director of the Michigan exhibit there.

Milk Pool Plans To Support New York Strikers

Appleton, Wis., Aug. 9 (AP)—Asserting that the Wisconsin Milk Pool was still convinced of the effectiveness of withholding milk from the market, directors of the organization voted today to invite organized milk producers of the middlewest to a conference at Horicon, Wis., next Sunday to discuss support of the New York milk strike.

The resolution instructed Walter M. Singer, pool president, to call the meeting "to take such action as they may determine in support of the striking New York dairy farmers."

In another resolution, the pool directors called upon all "thinking dairy farmers of the middlewest" not to ship their milk to New York and to report to the milk pool office at Appleton any farmers who did.

Edwin R. Griffin Is Taken By Death

Denver, Aug. 9 (AP)—Edwin R. Griffin, 77, vice president and general manager of the Great Western Sugar company's railways, died today.

Griffin was born in Mason, Mich., April 8, 1856. He became associated with the sugar company in 1905. He was made a director in 1912 and was put on its executive committee in 1917.

He is survived by his widow; three children, a sister, Mrs. Nettie Lane, of Detroit, and two brothers, George Griffin, of Albion, Mich., and Charles Griffin, of Mason, Mich.

MANY PAPERS ACCEPT CODE

Several Chains Announce They Will Abide by Agreement

New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—Acceptance of the newspaper code filed at Washington by the American Newspaper Publishers' association was announced today by publishers in various parts of the country.

Many of the newspapers declared their reporters, re-writers and copy-desk men would be included under the terms of the code.

In this category fell, among others, the Hearst chain of 24 papers, the Scripps-Howard group of 25, and the Paul Block string of 7.

Frank E. Gannett, publisher of the Gannett group of 16 newspapers, announced that his organization would accept the code for the industry, but that details of carrying out its provision would be left to individual editors and publishers in accordance with the Gannett group policy of local autonomy.

In New York, in addition to the Hearst and Scripps-Howard chains, those announcing adherence to the NRA provisions for newspaper workers included the Evening Post, and the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, the Hearst policy will become effective Aug. 14, the Eagle not later than Aug. 31 and the Post and Scripps-Howard "immediately."

The Mary chain of eight papers in Westchester county, N. Y., also accepted the code.

Five daily newspapers in Washington agreed to come under the NRA banner and to include their editorial staffs as well as their business employees under the 40-hour provision.

The dailies included the Post, the Evening Star and the News, of the Scripps-Howard chain. The Herald and the Times came under the arrangement along with the other Hearst papers.

The Detroit News, the Detroit Free Press and Detroit Times today signified their intention of signing the code.

Among the newspapers making known their acceptance of the NRA policy were the Memphis Commercial Appeal and the Memphis Press-Scimitar, the Newark N. J. Evening News, the Buffalo, N. Y., Evening News, the Atlanta Constitution, the Atlanta Journal, the Atlanta Georgian and the Birmingham News.

The Birmingham Post and the Birmingham Age-Herald announced they expected to accept the code.

Trouble Cruise

Skipper of Bluenose Tells His Story of Insulting Guests

Chicago, Aug. 9 (AP)—It was a different story of the cruise of the Bluenose Skipper Angus told tonight from that recounted by Addison Stillwell, broker and chairman.

Stillwell sued the skipper of the internationally known racing schooner for $5,000 damages claiming that a $2,500 charter for a fortnight's cruise was violated; his guests insulted and finally forced to leave the craft at Milwaukee because of conditions aboard.

Captain Walters today was served with a writ of attachment on the ship pending posting of $10,000 bond and disposal of the damage suit.

Commented the captain: "Well this is what I call a good joke. I'm not worried, but I believe Mr. Stillwell will be a sick man before this is all over."

He charged some of the guests became disorderly on the Mackinac trip.

The episode of Milwaukee the captain blamed on the stock market.

"When we becalmed off Milwaukee," he said, "the 'Admiral' (Stillwell) listened to wireless reports of the market. One of his pet stocks dropped a point. For a while I was afraid I might have to clap him in irons, so violent did he become."

"He waved his arms and shouted he must be put ashore. To accommodate him I finally picked up

Hoover To Become 59 Years Old Today

Stanford University, Calif., Aug. 9 (AP)—Herbert Hoover will be 59 years old tomorrow. Although no statement about birthday plans was forthcoming today from the Hoover home here, it appeared the former president had a "date" with the girl who used to go hiking with him over the foothills of the coast range when both were students at Stanford—the one he married.

Mr. Hoover, rested and cheerful, returned last night from a fishing trip on the Rogue river in Oregon. Mrs. Hoover returned, too, from an unannounced visit to friends elsewhere in California.

A secretary said Mr. and Mrs. Hoover would not be at home tomorrow. Since they returned from Washington, the two have slipped away in their car many times with a picnic lunch.

Hudkins' Shooter Is Ordered Freed

Los Angeles, Aug. 9 (AP)—Dick Bennett, night club operator, will not be prosecuted for the wounding of Ace Hudkins, former boxer, officers announced today.

Kenneth Thomas, deputy district attorney, said questioning of five patrons of the club in which Hudkins was shot, early Sunday morning, convinced him Bennett acted in self-defense. Police were ordered to release Bennett.

Blood transfusions have improved the condition of Hudkins, the "Nebraska wildcat," and Dr. P. S. O'Reilly, surgeon, said he was "making good progress."

Hudkins received two bullet wounds in the chest. Bennett said Hudkins had engaged in arguments with several persons in the night club and was shot when he drew a revolver upon being requested to leave.

SCHOOL MONEY IS DECREASING

Revenues from Various Sources Drop in Recent Years

Statistics showing how revenues received from the various sources by the Escanaba public schools have been reduced are contained in a report compiled by Supt. R. E. Cheney.

The taxable property valuation of the city of Escanaba also has declined in the last couple years, the report discloses. During the 1930-31 school year, the valuation was set at $8,594,084; 1931-32, at $8,604,115; 1932-33, at $8,444,217.66; and 1933-34, at $8,435,177.

This year the Escanaba school tax rate will be $12.30 per $1,000 of assessed property valuation, this rate being composed of $8.90 for the operating budget and $3.40 for debt service, as provided by the 15-mill tax limitation amendment. The 1932-33 school tax rate was $14.81; 1931-32, $17.00; and 1930-31, $17.56.

Reductions in the annual school budget are shown as follows: 1930-31, $288,754.90; 1931-32, $404,395.00; 1932-33, $264,431.50; 1933-34, $211,829.40. The large budget figures for 1930-31 and 1931-32 are due to the expenditures for the construction of the new junior high school building.

Primary Money Declines

The Escanaba school district's receipts from the state primary school fund also has decreased in late years. The primary fund figures follow: 1930-31, $80,049.28; 1931-32, $81,225.30; 1932-33, $70,219.32; and the estimate for 1933-34 is $53,362.08. The drastic reduction from $70,219.32 last year to the estimate of $53,362.08 for the coming year is also caused by the tax limitation amendment. The public utility corporations will pay into the primary school fund at the average tax rate in the state, which has been reduced approximately 25 per cent by the provisions of the 15-mill limitation amendment.

Turner Fund Out

Turner Fund aid has been eliminated by the 15-mill amendment also, and therefore will not be received next year. Past revenues from the Turner fund have been as follows: 1930-31, $35,491.81; 1931-32, $38,327.33; and 1932-33, $39,075.15.

The report also shows the reductions that have been made in

Jobs, Not Short Hours, Aim of N R A, Johnson Tells Retailers

Shortening retail store hours to avoid employment of additional help in accordance with the purpose of the NRA campaign was sharply scored by General Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator. Blue eagle emblems would be withdrawn where such attempts to evade the spirit of the program were disclosed, he threatened. His statement follows:

"In several local communities retailers are making joint agreements to shorten hours. 'This is not in keeping with either the spirit or the fact as expressed in the President's re-employment agreement or in the President's statements regarding re-employment, of which the essence is to effect an increase both in re-employment and in wages to those employed,' the administrator said.

"In the presidential agreement the absolute minimum hours of any store which customarily operated more than 52 hours is 52 hours. The average number of hours which retail grocers were open was by their national committee stated to be 73 hours. They said they did not want their hours shortened because of possible loss of business.

Given Special Treatment
"On this representation grocers were given special consideration and allowed 48 hours' work for the employees.

"If the store hours are reduced by this agreement to any number of hours below 63 hours, the re-employment which is anticipated through the allowance of the 48 man-work hours each week will not be obtained and the understanding upon which the food and grocery distributors and the retail grocers was based will not have been carried out.

"The proposal to shorten hours is in violation of section 8 of the President's re-employment agreement. Reconsideration of the provisions of the retail codes and possible withdrawal of insignia will be necessary immediately if community or concerted action to shorten store operating hours is taken.

Wants Spending Movement
"This is no time to board. It is no time to save money. It is a time to get things. Buy the things you need. Spend for re-employment. If you don't spend now and get something you will spend later for taxes and doles and get nothing.

"On the other hand if you do buy now you will help to start the upward spiral of business and make your job secure.

"This moment of crisis is no time for sickly sentimentality. It is a time to face facts and realities and to put our people back to work before snow flies.

"I have heard it said that some companies cannot do what is asked of them in justice to their stockholders. We cannot belittle their honest rights. But stockholders will be all right if this plan succeeds, but Heaven help them if it fails.

"There is not a stock in the world that is worth a cent if it cannot earn and no stock can earn if we are to let our business structure drop back into a new collapse.

"To put it in a nutshell: Men must earn before stocks can earn. That is as sound in economics as it is in human ethics. It is not a slogan. It is a business truth."

Employees Have Duty
"No employee should rest easy unless he has matched the sacrifice his boss has made, by making the shorter hours 100 percent worth the higher pay. The man who has thus got a new job, or a pay raise, or a shorter work week, is not worth it unless he does his part to get for his employer the increased business which alone can keep the bigger pay rolls going.

"Whether a man is a worker or an employer we are all customers. It is what we buy and have and use that makes the increased business upon which the whole program depends.

"You ought to buy because buying supports your job. But there is another reason. These higher wages will make higher prices just as sure as the sun sets and it will make them soon.

"Turn your money into things because, almost before you can draw a breath, the things you want will be worth more than the money you can save by not buying.

Law Merely an Aid
"No law can save the shiftless. All that a law can do is to give men a chance to help themselves. Some laws give little. Some give much. Nira gives the most that any law ever gave.

"Great flocks and blocks of people have begun to march toward the goal. Some move promptly. Some hesitate. 'It is so of cities. A few are already 100 per cent together and have employed their jobless men. Some have barely started. The cities that have done the job have proved that it can be done. The cities that lag are to be pitied. Their trouble is the lack of a rallying voice.'

Bob Becker Lauds Upper Peninsula In Tribune Story

This section of the upper peninsula is the subject of a highly favorable comment by Bob Becker, outdoor editor of the Chicago Tribune, writing in the Aug. 7 issue of that newspaper.

Mr. Becker's article follows: "Blaney, Mich.—Coming north into the upper peninsula of Michigan the motorist outdoor fan can see plenty of evidence that summer has reached its peak and now is on the wane. Many signals have been placed on the landscape by nature to tell the fisherman that August, the big fishing month, is the last month of summer and that the trout fishermen had better hurry. With this month goes trout game for another year.

"Driving over route M-35 out of Menominee on the way to Escanaba, Mich., ripe yellow fields of oats and restless flocks of blackbirds strike one as typical symbols of the approach of autumn. The woods are rich, green, and fragrant as they always are when summer has reached its peak.

See Fall Colors

"You can see the deep purple of blazing star flowers along the road and big fields of goldenrod along the road, both carrying the colors of the fall season. Swallows are sitting on the wires along the roads with their 1933 broods getting lessons on how to navigate before it is time to start south. This is another sign of how summer is on the wane.

"Any outdoor fan who wants to camp on the shore of Lake Michigan while en route to the northern fishing country will find some ideal locations on route M-35 between Menominee and Escanaba. There are well kept state park camping grounds in beautiful groves of cedars and others not in park limits. All of these camping grounds look out upon the flat, sandy and rocky beaches of Lake Michigan.

"The park camping sites have tables and wells for drinking water. And one does not need to worry about finding too much company on the grounds. The other day when we drove past these locations you could have had an acre of ground to yourself. Just one tent and one group of campers did we see on all of the lake shore area where the state has groomed and prepared some excellent tenting sites.

"Because of so many accidents involving deer on the highways at sundown or after the dark there are signs near here on U. S. 2 asking motorists to watch out for deer. When a car hits a deer it is not only tough on the animal but the collision often results in serious damage to the automobile and injuries to the driver. The deer and fawns are out in the open every evening now. Last night several of them were eating a late supper on the landing field near here."

Inventor Guilty Of Non-Support

Detroit, Aug. 8 (AP)—Willard Irving Osgood Twombly, inventor, was convicted in recorder's court today of non-support, on a charge filed by his estranged wife, Ethel, and was placed on probation for two years by Judge Arthur E. In her complaint, Mrs. Twombly charged that her husband had earned as high as $300,000 a year from his inventions, but that he had contributed only $10 during the past year for the support of herself and child.

SITUATION DISTURBING

TWO disconcerting pieces of news came out of Lansing on Tuesday. One told of the impending inability of many parochial schools to function, because of the inability of patrons of those schools to continue the measure of individual support formerly accorded and the probability that the state will be unable to make available funds to meet the emergency. The other distressing revelation is the announcement that future federal payments for welfare aid in Michigan will be made on the basis of but one third of the state's requirements, with the other two thirds being supplied by state and county governments and the absolute certainty that neither the state nor the counties can meet such a requirement at this time.

Both of these developments of Tuesday trace immediately back to present economic situation. In days of prosperity and even in days of former stress, patrons of the parochial schools were able to defray the cost of supporting their schools by individual subscriptions. The depression has been no respecter of persons and many of those who formerly contributed their share to this work have been unemployed for many months and are wholly unable to continue their subscriptions and others, who could be depended upon for substantial annual contributions, have suffered drastic reductions in income and must pare down their donations. In some communities, public school boards of education have recognized the value of the public service being rendered by the parochial schools and have appropriated funds to supply fuel and other overhead charges, in order that such schools might continue. Local boards of education now find themselves faced with the possibility of having funds available to conduct public schools for but a few months of the coming school year and no matter how great may be their desire to aid the situation, funds simply are not available. In Escanaba, while no report has yet been made public as to the inability of the two parochial schools here to operate for the coming school year, if, through any set of circumstances, neither St. Joseph's nor St. Anne's schools were able to function, and all of the children now enrolled in those schools were transferred to the public schools system, it would be necessary for the Escanaba board of education to engage at least 20 additional teachers.

Dr. Paul F. Voelker, superintendent of public instruction, called the attention of the state administrative board to the emergency situation that is faced, but the state board was unable to even suggest a solution, because of the receipt from Washington on Tuesday of a demand by the federal government that two thirds of Michigan's future welfare aid needs be supplied by state and county governmental units. The state legislature provided that $12,000,000 of the fund collected through the operation of the state sales tax shall be set aside for welfare aid purposes and unless economic conditions improve most radically immediately, it is certain that funds will not be even sufficient to defray the state's third of Michigan's monthly welfare bill. And most of the county governments in Michigan cannot even attempt to raise their third of the cost of welfare aid.

The whole resolves itself into another of those perplexing problems for which some solution must be found before the passing of many weeks.

GOOD TIME TO GET SICK

IF ANY resident of Escanaba is contemplating testing the medical and surgical skill of the available talent in this section of Michigan, today might be accepted as a most propitious time to make that test, when 150 physicians and surgeons of the Upper Peninsula will come here to participate in the sessions of the annual convention of the Upper Peninsula Medical Society.

In addition to the presence of leading medical and surgical practitioners of the peninsula, leaders in the profession in both the state and the nation, will come here, to deliver addresses at the various sessions on subjects of interest to the members.

Escanaba has already extended a hearty welcome this week to the Kiwanians of Wisconsin and upper Michigan and to delegates to the annual convention of the Cleveland Association of the Order of Eastern Star, but neither the sincerity of this city's welcome nor the depth of the hospitality of our people has yet been even tried.

It's a fresh and untarnished brand of welcome that Escanaba extends to members of the Upper Peninsula Medical Society and their guests at the convention opening today.

MARCHING ON

ARIZONA, on Tuesday, became the twenty-first state of the union to record itself for the repeal of the national prohibition amendment. And Arizona did the job in a thoroughly workmanlike manner, rolling up a majority of better than three to one, for the dropping of the so called "noble experiment."

Those forces of the nation, interested in the retention of the Eighteenth amendment in the constitution of the United States, have now met defeat in every state in which an election has been held.

The march toward the reestablishment of some sort of a "wet" regime in this country is moving steadily forward, with practical assurance that the end of the journey will be reached before the close of this year.

FIGHT HAY FEVER

A CAMPAIGN to wipe out hay-fer, through the eradication of rag-week, has been launched in this section, in common with every other part of the United States.

For many years science has been making a determined effort to solve the causes of man's ills and those engaged in this work have undergone untold privations and many have given their lives to this noble cause.

Many of these scientists have gone to India, Brazil, northern Australia and other fetid spots where the flesh of humans molds and decays because they have not learned how to use even the forces that Nature provides them in order to get relief.

But we don't need to go to India. We don't have to go a great many miles away from home in order to find how humanity suffers because of carelessness and indifference.

A large percentage of our population, much larger than the happy citizen who is not afflicted would ever guess, is subject to hay fever. Some people get it lightly, many are laid out on their backs so they can hardly breathe. Science has discovered for us that the ragweed is the principal contributor to this condition and the laws have stepped in, recognizing this fact, and decreed the execution of this source of misery to so many.

We have hereabouts a committee that has worked faithfully and wholeheartedly to see whether it could not make life bearable during the approaching weeks for those who cannot run away from the ragweed.

This committee has received much help from hundreds of people. It reports that both state and county highway commissioners have given wholehearted support but the difficulty is upon the side roads where the town clerks must supervise the destruction of the weeds, and even that will do little good unless the farmers destroy theirs.

It is quite likely that our own people would be as happily encouraged to see these farmers and town clerks get busy, and instantly or it is too late, as to see scientists sent to the Equator to risk their lives for the general public welfare.

Or will these farmers and town clerks rather cheer those going to foreign lands?

LOVE OF EVE

"But remember," he warned her, "I'm not promising you a definite job. There isn't an opening here at present. You'll have to make a place for yourself. Browse around here and there in the store. If you see merchandise that looks to you like news, write about it. If you make good—"

And Eve had made good. Now Barnes was demonstrating his faith in her ability by giving her a column in Bixby's daily advertisement to fill with chatty comment on the fashions, new merchandise and the like. And to give the column an impressive start Eve was to have a week in New York. Two days with Freda Carter, the dress buyer, on her way home from Paris with trunks filled with gowns from the Rue de la Paix, and the rest of the week to look about for herself. Eve's heart should sing, she told herself, instead of lying like a lump of lead and interfering with her breathing. Her heart should sing because she was Dick's wife. But this evening—the evening of their wedding—she was going to New York without him. And Dick had not yet been told that she was going.

It was 5:40 that evening before Eve, almost breathless with haste and excitement, emerged from Bixby's. Dick was waiting. There was something almost pathetic about the way she approached him. "Oh, Dick, I've kept you waiting!" she cried, penitent, as she slipped her arm through his. And something reassuring, protecting, in his answer that he would always be waiting for her. The November day had turned stormy and Eve brushed the snow from Dick's shoulders as they reached his roadster. How handsome he looked in his new navy-blue camel's hair overcoat. There was an air of unassuming prosperity about him. Dick tucked her in, pressed her hand and closed the door. When he slipped behind the wheel and started the motor Eve leaned over and kissed him. With a quick look to see that no one was near, Dick gathered her in his arms for a brief instant and as quickly let her go. She would tell him now. Might as well have it over.

"Dick," she began, "I have something very, very important to tell you."

"Better wait till we get out of this traffic," he warned. "We'll have a lot to talk over then."

And Eve was glad for the delay. It was not going to be easy to tell him. They followed the boulevard out toward the Heights. Dick driving at the rate of 25 miles an hour to keep with the green lights and avoid abrupt stopping on the slippery asphalt. Eve was sick with worry. She snuggled as closely as she dared to Dick's arm.

"Happy?" he asked. "You know I am," she told him and managed to smile.

They drove to Mission Inn for their wedding dinner. Eve was glad that Dick had selected this charming place. The evergreens outside the imposing, tile-roofed stucco building were mantled with Christmas-like whiteness. Inside, soft organ music came from the chapel.

At their table—a small one set for two—the southern California influence for which Mission Inn had been named was even more in evidence. A started, telling of heavenly blue shut out the winter night and storm. Wisteria trailed along the eaves and hung in purple clusters. Brilliantly colored parakeets looked sulkily at the diners from their ringed perches near the fountain. Here was a lemon tree in a green tub and there an orange tree or an oleander. The air was fragrant with exotic blossoms. On a wrought iron balcony above sat a senorita in yellow, wearing a black lace mantilla and a red rose in her hair. She was picking out soft melodies on a golden harp.

Dick had reserved the table and ordered the dinner. Excited and worried as she was, Eve realized that she was hungry. She remembered now that she had eaten nothing since breakfast. She sipped the mushroom soup, with its unusual piquancy of flavor for which the Inn was famous, and ate with relish the baked squash which was antechef specialty of the place. When the dessert arrived—frozen cream molded in the form of mission bells—she looked thoughtfully across the table at Dick.

"Our wedding bells, Dick," she smiled wistfully.

"I like it this way," he said. "Without all the fuss and excitement. Just we two in a world by ourselves."

"By ourselves..." by ourselves," Eve murmured. Then she took the plunge.

"Darling," she began, "I've been trying to tell you for an hour. I—nothing has ever been so hard for me! I can scarcely begin—but would you feel dreadfully if I had to leave you?"

CHAPTER II
Dick looked puzzled. "Leave me?" he repeated. "I don't understand. What in the world are you trying to tell me, sweetheart?"

"Well," Eve hesitated. "You know I told you that Alice Marshall is leaving Bixby's to open an office of her own and that I might have a chance to take her place? And you know how hard I've worked for a promotion—"

"Yes, Well?" Dick's voice didn't seem quite natural. It sounded a trifle grim. His gray eyes were sober, waiting.

"Well, Alice is going very soon. Sooner than Mr. Barnes expected. He called me into his office early this morning and told me I had a chance for the position. He said he and Mr. Bixby would decide about it this afternoon. And," Eve nervously took a sip of hot coffee, "he said this morning that if they decided I could have the job I was to leave for New York tonight. I was afraid to tell them this is our wedding day. I never would have gotten the promotion then."

Dick, white-faced, waited. She looked at him pleadingly but he did not help her. She must hurry on. Time pressed.

"Well, darling, I hoped against

COUNTIES SHARE IN TAX REVENUE

Amount Available from Sales Levy Known by Next Week

Definite knowledge of the amount of emergency welfare relief funds which will be available to the various counties from the $12,000,000 appropriation in the sales tax act, will be available sometime next week, according to members of the finance committee of the state administrative board. First reports and applications for license must be filed with the board of tax administration by August 15. Several days must elapse before these figures are tabulated. If the first month's proceeds exceed $2,600,000 the additional amount will be set aside for the use of primary schools which were given a supplementary appropriation of $15,000,000 if the sales tax collections will bear that burden.

AMUSEMENTS

With Lionel Barrymore and Miriam Hopkins heading an impressive cast, "The Stranger's Return" opened yesterday at the Delta Theatre to delight the hearts of all lovers of stirring human drama and romance of the soil.

Most of the picture was filmed on a farm location that brings the barnyard right to the childhood memories of all of us. Vidor, in his superb camera treatment, has captured the earthy charm of the bucolic setting, against which the tense drama of the story unfolds. It is easily among the finest pictures of the year, and the splendid performances of the stars and cast will live long in the memories of theatregoers.

Crustus Parker of Hartnett county, N. C., increased his wheat yield per acre from 28 to 60 bushels by planting it on Jespedeza sod.

For the LOVE OF EVE

have to do there is look about—visit the smart shops and restaurants and the theaters. It will be fun!"

But Dick had his work too and slowly he shook his head. "No, it's impossible for me to get away before the job is finished in June. Just now we're pouring concrete and if there is a slip-up I'm responsible. People have been forced to dynamite whole foundation walls because they were laid out a few inches out of line. No, Eve. When a bunch of blueprints are handed to me I don't leave until the completed building is turned over to the owner and I know what he will find out later—that everything is O. K. I'm staying on the job."

Eve's lips quivered. He was willing for her to go. He didn't even quarrel over it as, unreasonably, she had hoped he would do. Was it possible that she did not mean as much to him as his work? Well, then, she would just show him! She delivered the next blow.

"My train leaves at eight o'clock," Eve announced. "I rushed out late this afternoon and packed a bag and sent it to the station."

"WHAT?" he cried. Hastily he paid the check and bundled Eve into her wraps. Then, telling her to wait inside until he brought the car, he dashed into the storm. In a few moments he was back and hurrying her under the canopy to the chugging roadster. They could see the lights of the Terminal Tower as they sped over the Heights to the city. Dick's profile was rigid. He kept his eyes on the slippery street.

Eve could not endure it. "Dick!" Her voice was high-pitched, imploring.

He brought the car to a stop beside the cobblestone garden wall of some millionaire's estate.

"Oh, Dick!" she sobbed and flung herself into his arms.

He said, soothingly, "There, there, sweetheart, don't cry. You'll miss your train. We have only 20 minutes. It's a bad night for driving and I'll have to stop on it to make that train." Dick released her and started the motor. He had not kissed her.

"Richard Rader! If you don't kiss me this minute I'll NEVER go to New York," she told him through her tears.

And Dick kissed his wife, stepped on the accelerator and reached the station just a few minutes before eight o'clock.

"Where will you stop?" he asked as he saw Eve safely aboard the train. "Have you wired for a reservation?"

Eve named her hotel. "Bixby's made the reservation for me. And Freda Carter will be there the first two days." Eve smiled. She knew why he asked—flowers, telegrams, letters.

"But you'll be there alone the rest of the time? I don't like it, Eve. It isn't safe."

"Oh, darling, don't be quaint. Of course I'll be safe! I'll look up Irene Prentiss. Will she do for a chaperon?"

She kissed Dick goodbye and told him she would miss him.

He alighted and stood outside looking up at her through the car window. Tears dimmed her eyes, and there was a hurt, puzzled look on Dick's face—a little-boy look. A pain that was fire-bred maternal twisted Eve's heart.

Of course Dick would go to a telegraph office immediately and send her a telegram to be waiting for her at the hotel in New York in the morning. Eve could almost guess the words he would use. "Missing you, darling. Hurry back. Love from Dick."

A gay group including a young man and two girls brushed past Dick. Then the man turned in sudden recognition and the girls, clinging to his arm, swung about with him. Apparently they were being introduced, although Eve could hear no part of the conversation through the double windows.

Then, with a warning and a jerk, the long train glided out of the station. Dick was lost to Eve and her last glimpse of him included a pair of laughing girls and an irresponsible looking young man. Suddenly Eve wanted to leap from the moving train to be with Dick.

"It's not only your wedding night, Eve Bayless," she told herself, "but it's also your first business trip to New York—and you know the importance of that."

As the train gathered momentum and plunged into the night Eve tried to read the evening paper but was unable to fasten her attention on anything but the department store advertisements, which was merely force of habit.

She rang for the porter and asked to have her berth made up early. Later she lay on her side for a long time, resting her head on her arm and watching the storm as the train sped through the countryside.

This was Eve's wedding night and she was alone, headed for New York on business for Bixby's store. What a situation! How had she found strength to tear herself away? How could she leave Dick like that without hurting him dreadfully, she asked herself. And who was that man with the two girls? Could they have made up a forenoon for an impromptu party? Could Dick be blamed if he joined them?

Suppose he should never forgive her? Suppose she never saw Dick again? Suppose something terrible happened to punish her for leaving him this way?

Eve slipped down under the covers and pulled the sheet close so that only her face peeped out for air. So had she done when she was a little girl and became frightened in the night at imaginary figures and sounds. And so she prayed as she had prayed when she was a little girl—her Divinity as real as friendly, as familiar almost as her own parents. "Oh, God, please have Dick forgive me; and help me to be good to him!"

Would there be a telegram in the morning?

Rigs of Bygone Days Sought For Escanaba's Celebration

Does anyone in Delta county or immediate vicinity own a one-hoss shay, a buckboard, a covered wagon, an ox-team, a one-lunged automobile or a tandem bicycle?

This question is being asked in connection with tentative plans for Escanaba's Labor Day celebration, with which it is planned to combine an observance of Escanaba's golden anniversary. It has been proposed to stage a parade of antique and historical vehicles to typify the progress made since Escanaba was founded, and if sufficient entries can be obtained it is believed this event would be one of the big features of the day.

Probably someone in Delta county is still using an ox-team, such as played an important part in early-day logging operations in this vicinity. Maybe in some barn or back yard there is a buckboard buggy, a tallyho, a covered wagon or an aged surrey with fringes around the top. Undoubtedly someone has an automobile of the early vintage which made horses short as it chugged along with chain drive clattering.

The committee outlining plans for the Labor Day and 50th anniversary celebration would like to know just how many of these antiques on wheels there are in the community and where they are. Persons having anything to offer in this line, which would help the parade typify the spirit of the past, are asked to write or call The Daily Press at once, describing what they have, and stating whether or not their vehicle is in condition to survive a parade.

Conspicuous of historical value are especially sought, and it is predicted that an intensely interesting collection of this kind may be gathered in the community.

Empty Coffee
Can May Be Used
For Frozen Dishes

Empty baking powder or coffee cans will serve excellently for freezing certain mixtures when a refrigerator is not available. The suggestion of home economics extension specialists, Michigan State college.

Fill the can about two-thirds full, then cover with several layers of greased wax paper with greased side up. Adjust the cover and seal with two-inch wide strip of cotton to prevent salt from the ice to enter. Bury mold in a mixture of three parts ice to one part salt and let stand for two to three hours.

Two or more kinds of frozen mixtures may be arranged in layers in the mold, or one kind used as a lining, the other filling the center. Below are suggested some recipes which may be frozen by this method.

Honey Mousse—Peel 2 oranges, removing inner membrane with rind and cut in small pieces. Soak 1 teaspoon granulated gelatin in 1 tablespoon cold water, heat 1 cup strained honey and add gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Add the orange, remove from fire and when cool add 2 cups heavy cream, beaten stiff. Put in mold and freeze.

Maple Parfait—Heat 1 cup hot apple syrup and pour over 4 slightly beaten eggs. Cook the mixture in a double boiler until thickened. Cool and add 1 pint heavy cream beaten until stiff. Place in mold and freeze.

Frozen Peach Whip—Beat stiff 4 egg whites, add ½ cup sugar, gradually, to retain all air beaten into egg whites. Measure 1 cup cream in separate bowl, whip until stiff, combine carefully with egg whites. Gently fold into mixture 2 cups previously prepared and cooled peach puree made by draining canned peaches and rubbing through sieve. Add ¼ teaspoon lemon extract, pour into cans and freeze.

Frozen Prune Delight—Cut 2 cups prune pulp into small pieces. Heat ½ cup maple syrup to boiling point and dissolve 1 tablespoon gelatin soaked 5 minutes in 1 tablespoon cold water. Pour syrup and gelatin gradually over 4 well beaten eggs, beating constantly. Add 1 ½ teaspoon salt and prunes. Fold in ¾ cup whipped cream (may be omitted). Pour into cans and freeze. The same proportion of three parts of ice by volume to one part salt is used for all recipes. Two to three hours is required for freezing by this method.

WHAT TO CAN, AND HOW

In this, the fourth of a series of six articles on "What to Can, and How," are recipes for delicious confections from peaches, pears, plums, pineapples and gooseberries.

If you want to make a few jars of special preserves and conserves, clip these recipes now and put them where you can find them when you find a bargain in the various fruits.

Imperfect fruit that is not suitable for canning in halves can be worked up into delicious fruit butters and conserves. The imperfections must be cut away and the good fruit is then usable.

Peach Butter
Scald peaches, dip into cold water and slip skins. Remove stones and put into preserving kettle with just enough water to prevent burning. Cover and cook until fruit is tender, stirring to prevent sticking. Rub through a coarse sieve and measure pulp with its juice. Put sifted fruit in preserving kettle and add as many cups of sugar as there were cups of fruit. Bring to the boiling point and boil fifteen minutes, stirring constantly with a long-handled spoon. When the butter is nearly done it splutters and splashes and will burn one's hand if the spoon handle is not long enough. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

Or the butter can be cooked in a heat regulated oven. Process for four or five hours at 300 degrees F. Heat sugar and fruit on top of stove in a wide, open kettle. Then put into oven and cook until as thick as wanted. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

A good way to determine the thickness of the butter is to test a small spoonful on a cold saucer. When this is the desired consistency the butter is done.

Peach and Orange Marmalade
Twenty-four peaches, 4 oranges, sugar.

Scald and peel peaches. Cut in thin slices removing stones. Wash oranges and squeeze out juice. Cut rind in thin strips. Combine juice, prepared rind and peaches. Weigh. Add as many pounds of sugar as there were pounds of the fruit. Cover and let stand overnight. Bring slowly to the boiling point and boil fifteen, stirring to prevent sticking as the mixture thickens. Simmer over a low fire until thick. It will take about an hour and a half to cook the marmalade. Turn into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffine. Cover with cover.

MORE MEN OUT FIGHTING FIRE

New Blazes Break Out Between Perkins and Friday

Fresh fires of considerable size and seriousness broke out yesterday morning in the area between Perkins and Friday and at noon between 75 and 80 men were rushed to the scene to aid in placing them under control.

This brought the total of local men now engaged in battling blazes that are destroying forest land and wild game life in Delta county close to 150, the first crew recruited here having been returned to the Rock district.

It was reported officially that around 500 men are now engaged in fighting fire in the county. So large is the number that hard-wear stores have been stripped of shovels and axes and it is now impossible for the conservation department to supply the men, new employees being forced to bring their own implements.

Following sighting of the new fires yesterday morning, a call for men was received here and at noon close to 40 were dispatched on truck. A crew similar in size followed within one and a half hours.

Fire lines were played around the blaze east of Swanup Point which broke out Tuesday and sufficient men were recruited from that locality to control the situation.

Luce Satisfied With Van Wagoner Pledge

Newberry, Aug. 9 (AP)—Satisfaction was expressed by local highway officials over the statements of Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, made here in conference on Monday. Immediate use of federal funds for highway work was indicated and also a definite promise that the dust of the trunk lines at least would be laid.

Members of the state official body who journeyed up to the welfare meet in Houghton last week "ate dust" a good deal of the way, bringing home to them in a very realistic manner the dangers of dusty highways as well as the disagreeable side. Among the local men who conferred with the commissioner were S. L. Sleeper, county engineer, Dr. H. E. Perry, Jess Barrett, J. P. Rabbily, W. T. Murphy and Philip Hamilton.

Mr. Sleeper reports that several highway projects were laid before Mr. Van Wagoner who promised to give his decision concerning them in a short time making it possible to start work on them almost at once.

LOCAL MAN FOUND DEAD

Alphonse Trekeks, 42, Victim of Acute Alcoholism

The lifeless body of Alphonse Trekeks, 42, was found on the ground outside his shack in the 1200 block of Minneapolis avenue shortly before noon yesterday. Death was attributed to acute alcoholism by Coroner William Milecki of Escanaba.

Trekeks had resided in Gladstone for several years, first with the John Budzis at the Buckeye Addition and recently alone in a shack on a wooded lot near the Lake Shore.

His body was found by Harry Johnson who returned from the ground outside his shack in the 1200 block of Minneapolis avenue shortly before noon yesterday. Death was attributed to acute alcoholism by Coroner William Milecki of Escanaba.

Inside the shack were found two drinking glasses, one containing a mixture of iodine and water, the other empty but showing evidence of having previously held some iodine or a concoction containing iodine. On the window sill was an empty bottle bearing a carbolic acid label.

Lack of acid burns on the mouth of the victim led to the belief that death was due to alcoholism, it being common practice, it was reported for invertebrate drinkers to mix iodine with water or other liquids for drinking purposes. No inquest will be held.

The victim was born in the City of Hasselt, Province of Limburg, Belgium on Oct. 26, 1890. He is said to have served during the war. He has no known relatives residing in this country.

In his effects was found a note book which requested that in case of accident or sickness that Pierre Poels of Bellingham, Limburg, Belgium, be notified.

Manistique Case Is Scheduled Today

A hearing will be conducted this morning at ten o'clock before Judge Edmund Ashford in juvenile court in regard to the case of May Jimoi, nine-year-old daughter of John Jimoi who last week was bound over to circuit court on a larceny charge.

The girl had confessed to stealing money from local residents when she entered the homes on a pretext of selling berries and stated that she gave the money to her father. The latter told his daughter, according to the girl's confession, to go out and "find" some more money.

Since the father's contention to jail, however, it is reported that the girl continued to enter homes on the pretext of selling berries, but no subsequent thefts were reported to police.

163 CARS GIVEN APPROVAL TUES.

Auto Drivers Cooperating Splendidly in Auto Safety Campaign

The auto safety campaign being held here this week got under way in quick fashion yesterday morning when city police and sheriff's department officials cooperated with a number of the Newberry state police department in checking over numerous local cars. Officers O. K. in the form of windshield stickers were put on 163 cars during the first day's work.

Brakes were tested on North Cedar street in front of the office of the justice of the peace where yellow lines marked off the street in two twenty foot distances. Cars traveling at a rate of 20 miles an hour are being compelled to stop within a distance of 20 feet in order to have brakes approved.

Thorough check-ups are being made on drivers' licenses, headlights, both bright and dim, tail lights, windshield wipers, and horns. During the first day's check-up approximately twenty drivers were found to be operating cars under drivers' licenses which had expired. According to the present ruling drivers' licenses are good for only three years from the date of issuance.

Officers in charge of the car testing are well pleased with the cooperation received thus far on the part of the public. Tests will be made for the balance of the week and it is hoped that all cars by that time will display the windshield stickers bearing the official O. K.

Revolta Scores Crushing Victory in PGA Meet

MEETS RUNYAN IN ROUND TWO

Menominee Star Crashes Par, Advances With 12-11 Victory

BY PAUL MCKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 9 (AP)—Out of another withering bombardment of par, which blew two Ryder cup stars out of the big fight, Olin Dutra, defending title holder, and Gene Sarazen, outstanding favorite, emerged victorious today in their first round.

Finishing the range of the 6,270 yard stretch, the two marked men of the championship drive came through in easy fashion, Sarazen trying the course record on the front nine in the forenoon with a dazzling 31, four under par, that carried him to an ultimate 8 and 7 victory over Vincent Eldred, veteran campaigner from Pittsburgh. Dutra, deadlocked with Reggie Miles, tiny "Giant Killer" from Ashland, Ohio, for 26 holes, sailed into the second round with a 4 and 3 triumph as he downed putts from distances of 27 to 16 feet.

Sub-Par Golf
The distinction of turning in the most lopsided triumph of the round, in which five players shattered par, went to 32-year-old Johnny Revolta of Menominee, Mich., who routed Alex Gerlach from the Catskill mountains under an avalanche of prize approach shots, 12 and 11. Revolta took a nine up lead after the morning 18 with a par-bursting 68 and shot par for the rest of the way, except for one hole, to win in a romp as many galleries as who knew him in the days when he caddied near here, cheered him on.

Dealing the biggest upset with the most brilliant assortment of shots was Willie Goggin, brassy shotmaker from Salada, Beach, Calif., who escorted Leo Diegel, twice champion, from the picture, 4 and 3. Goggin was five under par for the 35 holes he had to travel.

Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., Ryder cup player and a star of the winter tournaments, furnished the scoring fireworks in the morning, with a 32-34-69, a short of the course record, and was three under perfect figures for 31 holes as he crushed Al Houghton of Washington, D. C., scoring a 67 on his first round, also was three shots under par for 35 holes, defeating Willie Klein of New York, an even par shooter, 2 and 1. Sarazen also was three under par for 29 holes.

Horton Smith of Chicago and Diegel were the two Ryder cup players to fall by the wayside in the heavy shelling. The one-time "Johnnie Chief" hooked up with Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J., and was eliminated, 6 and 5, with straight par.

Only one match went to the 36th green, Johnny Farrell coming back from an almost hopeless disadvantage to defeat Victor Ghezzi of Ramsey, N. J., one up. Three down at noon, Johnny trailed until the thirty-third hole and went ahead to stay with his slender margin on the thirty-fifth, where he negotiated a near dead style to win with a par four. They halved the final hole in fours.

Another lively duel was fought between the co-medalists, Jimmy Hines of New York and Mortie Dutra, with Hines victorious, 3 and 2. They will meet for the medal in an 18 hole playoff, probably Sunday.

Many of the finest shotmakers in the world of golf remained in the championship drive tonight. Among them, in addition to the aforementioned, were Tom Creavy, Albany, N. Y., 1931 champion; Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., Ryder cup star; "Light Horse" Harry Cooper of Chicago; Johnny Golden of Norwalk, Conn.; and "Wee" Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va.

Tomorrow's upper bracket pairings:
Hines vs. Picard
Frank Walsh, Chicago vs. Creavy
Al Espinosa, Akron, O., vs. Goggin
Runyan vs. Revolta
Lower bracket:
Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., vs. Dudley
Sarazen vs. Cooper
Golden vs. Cruickshank
Olin Dutra vs. Farrell.

Status Of Helen Jacobs Is Probed

New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—A brief flurry of excitement over a possible violation of the amateur code by Helen Jacobs quickly died down today while the investigation of the amateur standing of Ellsworth Vines, Jr., was still under way.
Rumors of large professional offers to Vines brought the announcement yesterday from Louis J. Carruthers, former president of the U. S. L. T. A. and chairman of the rules committee, that the matter was being investigated. Today the committee's attention was directed to an advertisement capitalizing Miss Jacobs' tennis achievements, but after the California girl had not only denied she had authorized the advertisement but decided not to make the appearance at a department store which it announced, the matter was dropped.

JEBY STOPPED BY BROUILLARD

Alleged Champion Loses in Sixth Round at Polo Grounds

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Polo Grounds, New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—A cool, barrel-chested young French Canadian from Worcester, Mass., interrupting Lou Brouillard, caught up with Ben Jeby, stolid New York Hebrew, in the seventh round of a fifteen round battle tonight, and stripped him of his claims to the middleweight championship with one rocketing sweep of his left hand.
Brouillard, one of those south paws whose battle style has confounded orthodox right hand warriors since fistie history began, made a cold, calculating fight of it in adding Jeby's recognition here as the 160 pound king to the honors he already has known as a former welterweight champion of the world.

For six rounds he chopped away at the steady going, same young New Yorker who was hailed as a middleweight champion here after he knocked out Frankie Battaglia in twelve rounds last winter. Chunky, durable, Brouillard stabbed out openings with his extended right hand, just the opposite to the usual style of attack, and followed this nicking left with left smashes to the head and body.

Near the end of the sixth round, Brouillard shook himself of his easy going ways and loosed a volley of left smashes to the body that left Jeby gasping, the air driven from his lungs, as the bell found him, ready to go down under another cold blow, propped in his own corner.
Brouillard lost little time in the seventh. He drew Jeby's guard up with his pawing right and again smashed the left into the champion's sagging body muscles. Try as he would, Jeby could not get his hands up. A sweeping left, brought up from the floor as Brouillard charged in, caught him full on the chin and he crashed to the floor, face down.

BIG SIX STANDINGS

(By The Associated Press)
With three hits in five times at bat, Jimmie Fox yesterday clubbed his way back into the batting leadership of the American League by the narrow margin of three-tenths of a point over Al Simmons, who was idle. Fox's slugging activities left him an average of .355, as compared to .355 for his former teammate, Chuck Klein, major league leader, Virgil Davis and Heinie Manush lost one point each. Davis' loss dropped the Phillies catcher into third place in the National League half of the sextet and permitted Bill Terry, who did not play, to go into the runner-up position. The standings:

CYCLISTS WILL BE HERE TODAY

Transcontinental Troupe Delayed at Soo By Immigration Laws

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 9 (AP)—United States customs officials today declined to allow members of the transcontinental bicycle marathon to cross over from Canada until about 7:30 p.m. posted for them and their equipment.

A surety bond of $3,000 or $1,500 cash was asked. It was hoped that the money would be kept here from Armand Vincent, Montreal promoter who is sponsoring the event, in time to permit a start tomorrow. The riders were scheduled to go to Escanaba, Mich., today and that will be their destination tomorrow if the money arrives.

In order to keep intact the record of staging a section of the race each day, the 49 riders made a run to Batchawana, Ont., today.

Contestants in the 4,300-mile transcontinental bicycle race failed to arrive in Escanaba last night as scheduled due to difficulties with immigration inspectors at Sault Ste. Marie, but assurance was given last night that the derbys would negotiate the lap to this city today.

Henry F. Anderson, president of the Escanaba Kiwanis club, which is sponsoring the local appearance of the marathons, stated that the caravan would arrive in Escanaba about 7:30 o'clock tonight and would put on the program at the Upper Peninsula State Fairgrounds.

It appears that a number of the contestants from European countries did not have the proper credentials to present to the immigration inspectors at the Canadian border, and a delay of one day was occasioned while the middle was being straightened out.

Several cyclists injured
Injuries to several of the cyclists were also reported, and it is believed that the one day idleness caused by the immigration officials was greatly welcomed by the contestants. Roads in Canada were in bad shape, resulting in many slips.

An interesting program will be presented at the fairgrounds this evening, including the 10-mile finish of the bicycle race, a foot race between internationally famous sprinters, trick bicycle riding and the local attraction to no put on by veteran Escanaba cyclists, Edward F. Bolger, long a follower of the bicycle racing game, reported he was all set for tonight's race, but Martin C. Anderson was complaining yesterday of a renewed attack of neuritis and hinted that he probably would not be able to compete.

Henry Anderson, son of the veteran cyclist, may take to the wheel to defend the family honor. P. A. Aronson and Peter Duke, other old timers, may be induced to race against Bolger if Anderson fails to show up.

The Kiwanis club is sponsoring a dance at the Coliseum later in the evening.

BI-CYCLE PARADE HELD

The bicycle parade was held as scheduled yesterday afternoon. The 12 boys and girls winning tickets to the Delta Theatre were: Martin Moskon, Charles Thatcher, Paul Carter, Dorothy Gustafson, Dorothy Dodge, Lois Grimmer, Kenneth Carlson, Howard McGee, Donald Campbell, Robert Amundson, Kenneth Buckholtz and Robert Olson.

Tigers Cavort At Grand Rapids And Play Tie Game, 7-7

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 9 (AP)—A four-run rally in the last inning gave the Grand Rapids All-Stars a 7 to 7 tie with the Detroit Tigers here today in an exhibition game that was called at the end of the ninth to permit the visitors to catch a train.

Benny McCoy, Grand Rapids youth upon whom the Tigers secured an option a few weeks ago, got a home run, a double, a single and a walk, as if to show his prospective bosses that he knows something about the game.

Walker, who usually patrols an outer garden, was in the box for the Tigers at the time. He was found for six hits in the two innings he pitched.

Score by innings:
Detroit — 200 002 012—7 8 1
Grand Rapids — 000 000 014—7 17 2

GRIMES BEATEN BY EX-MATES

Cubs Defeat Cards, 10-7, in Final of Two-Game Series

Chicago, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs battered their erstwhile teammate, Burleigh Grimes, out of action in less than an inning today, and continued their assault against Sylvester Johnson and Tex Carleton to defeat St. Louis, 10 to 7, in the final of a two game series.

Grimes, who was released by the Cubs last week and almost immediately signed by the Cardinals, got only one man out in the first inning. While that much was being accomplished, the Cubs lashed him for four hits and five runs, the climax of the attack being Babe Herman's fourteenth home run of the season with two men on.

Although Bud Tinning received credit for his ninth victory of the season, Lonnie Warneke had to come to his rescue in the sixth.

Jurges led Chicago's 15 hit attack with a double, triple and home run in successive times at bat, accounting for four runs.

SEEDED TENNIS STARS ADVANCE

Gledhill Loses in Only Upset in Net Meet at Rye, N. Y.

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)—Two American women stars and two British players won their way into the semi-finals of the eastern turf court tennis championships at the Westchester Country club today while six of the seeded met reached the quarter final round in their division.

Miss Crickshank scored an impressive victory over Joan Ridley of England today, 6-0, 6-2. Miss Ceurvorst also won in straight sets, defeating Ollice Francis of Orange, N. J., 6-2, 6-3. NRA CAMPAIGN GROUP NEEDED

Advisory Committee to Meet at C-C Office on Monday

Announcement was made yesterday of the appointment of the advisory committee, which will launch the president's emergency reemployment campaign in Escanaba.

Mayor Carl J. Sawyer is chairman of the group, and other members are: M. N. Smith, H. F. Anderson, C. C. Stephenson, H. D. Brackett, William Eberd, Adrienne Tougnaunt, Mrs. Arthur Peterson, Rev. C. A. Lund, Matt Peterson, Wm. J. Duchaine and Charles E. Lewis.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Act administrator, has addressed telegrams and letters to the presidents of chambers of commerce or leading commercial organizations in each of more than 12,000 cities and towns asking them to create an advisory committee to direct the reemployment drives, such committee to include the official heads of all active business and civic organizations, including Rotary, Kiwanis, Federation of Labor, women's clubs, all welfare societies and trade and professional organizations. The Escanaba committee was selected on the basis of these instructions.

The advisory committee will meet at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce office 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon to discuss the plans for the campaign. One of the functions of the committee will be to see if employers, displaying the NRA insignia, have either increased wages or provided additional jobs.

While it is the desire of those in charge of the president's Emergency Re-employment campaign to see widespread use made of the official emblem of the N. R. A. which bears the words, "We Do Our Part," it was pointed out today by Carl J. Sawyer, chairman in charge of the big drive in Escanaba that it is a serious offense on the part of anyone who might make improper use of the insignia. Mr. Sawyer made it plain that the N. R. A. official emblem is the property of the United States government and may not be used or reproduced without authority of the N. R. A.

"The government's regulations permit the use of this emblem," continued Mr. Sawyer, "by all employers who sign the president's Reemployment agreement and comply with it, and the regulations also permit consumers to wear or display a similar badge but only in the form authorized for consumers who sign a statement of cooperation.

"The government's regulations also provide that by application to the N. R. A. any responsible manufacturer will be authorized to make and offer for sale hangers, cards, and stickers provided (a) that he agrees to conform to regulations to prevent the emblem coming into hands of employers not authorized to use it; (b) he himself has signed the president's agreement and is authorized to use the emblem; and (c) he will sell at a reasonable price. Information regarding manufacturers authorized to supply the emblem will be issued by the N. R. A. from time to time. For purposes of reproduction, the N. R. A. will be glad to furnish original drawings to such manufacturers to the extent they are available but cannot undertake to do so if the demand should prove large.

"Every such manufacturer shall require of every employer ordering such emblems that he affix to his order one of the 1 1/4" stickers. Any newspaper, magazine or other publication is authorized to reproduce the emblem in the advertisement of any employer, provided such employer files with the newspaper, magazine or other publication a written statement that he has signed the president's agreement and affixes the sticker thereto."

ment's requirement of the manufacturers of stationery, Mr. Sawyer said: "Any manufacturer of stationery or advertising literature, including labels, is authorized to reproduce the emblem on behalf of any employer who files with such manufacturer a written statement that he has signed the president's agreement and affixes the sticker thereto."

Clothes Destroyed In Residence Fire

Heavy damage was caused by a fire which broke out early Wednesday morning in a residence at 405 South 17th. The fire department was called at 5:30 a. m. and found smoke rolling out from all parts of the house. The blaze apparently had started in a closet of the upstairs flat, spreading through up into the garret and under the roof. Considerable clothing, including a valuable fur coat stored in a closet, was lost in the fire, the firemen learned.

GARDEN PLOTS LOOKING GREAT

Escanaba City Gardens Need Showers For Bumper Crop

If showers come in time, Escanaba's city welfare gardens are going to yield a bumper crop this season. Even in the present dry spell, the gardens are looking fine, and those who have planted and tended them are beginning to reap the rewards for their efforts.

Various kinds of vegetables are being grown in several hundred plots which are estimated as covering about 200 acres of land in the outskirts of the city. The largest collection of gardens is on city owned land around the site of the sewage disposal plant. This tract was enlarged this year, and the newly tilled land is completely covered with truck plots.

Without rain, growers expect a good crop, but showers within the next few days will help the project along to a marked success.

Reach for a Lucky

—for always Luckies Please!

A woman's reason for liking a man's cigarette

Maybe you'll think I'm a bit inconsistent. Most things I'm fond of are really quite feminine . . . dainty, frilly frocks—delicate desserts—yes, and delicate compliments, too. To me my cigarette is a personal thing—it touches my lips—so give me one with real character. For some reason or other, I find that whenever I reach for a Lucky, always "Luckies Please". They're as mild and pure as can be—I wonder if "Toasting" isn't the reason after all!

because "It's toasted"
